

Please insert the following Abstract as a separate page after the claims.

ABSTRACT

A medical tool for dental treatments by means of a laser, the light guide of which runs in a hand piece. The light guide is provided with a laser module including power circuitry and a second laser module is provided with the first laser module, operating at a different wavelength.